fact:sheet

Notary's office "Notariat Becker" offers a lot of notarial services at the heart of baroque quarter in Dresden. Since 20 years "Notariat Becker" has accompanied customers successfully in writing juridical advices, devising contracts, authentication and much more needs, requested privately and in business.

The term "notary" was derived from the Latin word "notarius", which literally means "a fast writer". This origin points to the special notarial challenge: Innumerable folders, contracts, customer data as well as history of communication are to be stored securely and for long time and have to be retrieved on demand.

These data are placed in specified document management systems like software "Akte", e-mails, digital contracts which are stored in the filesystem, but also on webpages and electronic adressbooks. That's why "Notariat Becker" decided to use inter:gator.

Core of this solution is a search engine which is connected to various systems: Intelligent modules for analysis produce keywords and classification while indexing, independent of their data source.

Mr. Becker said, "In contrary to a simple full text search – inter:gator does not leave us alone with thousand of results but offers an elegant and very efficient possibility to navigate through results, to limit or enlarge them." And that's the point: Inter:gator dashboard uses inter:gator enterprise search services to show various search results in different widgets according to individual rights of current user, of course.

Other widgets show structured information about projects, individual and central administrated rss-feeds or deliver hints to relevant offers at the internet.
